Waller County District Attorney Breaks Silence Details Alleged Conspiracy to Hide Landfill From Public

By CARRIE PRAZAK-GOURLEY
The Waller Times

For four long years, Waller County District Attorney Elton Mathis held his tongue. Even in September of 2013, when County Engineer Orval Rhoads allegedly accused him of telling county officials to keep the proposed 15-story Highway 6 landfill deal a secret from the public. Mathis now admits that false revelations made his life a 'living hell' because so many townspeople turned on him.

Mathis was required under state law, as the County Attorney, to keep lawyer-client communications confidential, and even though he asked to be released from his legal obligation, former Waller County Judge Beckendorff and some since ousted commissioners would never let Mathis tell his story.

Mathis was recently freed of that obligation by the new Commissioners Court and is exposing the conspiracy of silence and false statements that so many Hempstead residents have suspected.

According to Mathis, he never believed Judge Beckendorff was ever against the landfill. After the landfill deal became public, Beckendorff told a packed audience he only found out about the landfill after the company had bought land rights and was obligated to keep the deal a secret because of a confidentiality agreement. That was Beckendorff's story before Dolcefino Consulting proved through phone records that he had been talking with the landfill bosses for months before he claimed he even knew about a landfill.

When questioned during the trial and on his deposition, Beckendorff claimed he was trying to keep the landfill company from coming, and kept it secret because of an agreement with the landfill group. District Attorney Mathis, however, says he had no knowledge of such an agreement.

Beckendorff, when questioned this week about the secrecy, stated that no one on the court knew of what location Pintail was going to choose. "The court did not go public because we did not want to cause an uproar all over the county when a location had not yet been chosen."

Beckendorff also stated that no legal counsel for the county had made the court aware of the need of a waste management plan by means of an ordinance. In all workshops attended such an ordinance had not been mentioned. "In fact," Beckendorff stated, "it was Stan Kitzman who found out about such an ordinance from a Fort Bend County commissioner."

Candidates Set for May 9 Elections

By CARRIE PRAZAK-GOURLEY
The Waller Times

On Saturday, May 9, the cities of Waller, Hempstead, and Prairie View will hold elections for city council, and Hempstead ISD voters will chose two members for the Board of Trustees. All applications have been filed and candidates that will be placed on ballots are final.

This year, the City of Waller will elect three members to the city council. Five candidates have filed for the three positions. Incumbents for council are Roger Frey, Dwayne Hajek, and Sidney Johnson. Rick Dalton, a former councilman, is trying to regain his seat, after vacating his position last year to run for mayor. Mike McCormick, who ran last year, is again attempting to gain a position on the council.

Hempstead will hold an election for city council Positions 3, 4, and 5. Lonnie Garfield will face David Lewis for Position 3; for Position 4, incumbent Charles Tompkins Jr. faces challenger Eileen Birney; and Ben Tibbs, incumbent for Position 5, faces Terrance Johnson.

Hempstead I.S.D. will hold an election for School Board positions 5 and 6. Jennifer Schmidt, incumbent for Position 5, faces challengers Ricky Pierce, Tressy Wilson, and Marvin Hood. Four candidates vie for School Board position 6: Odis Styers III, Eileen Birney, Janet Fisher, and Maria Vargas.

The City of Prairie View will hold an election for council positions 1, 2, and 3. Incumbent Brian Rowland will face challenger Jonathan Miller for Position 1; for

Court Approve Resolution Opposing Unfunded Mandates

By CARRIE PRAZAK-GOURLEY
The Waller Times

On Wednesday, March 11, the Waller County Commissioners Court met in regular session at 9 a.m. at the Waller County Courthouse. In attendance were Commissioners Justin Beckendorff, Jeron Barnett, Russell Klecka, and John Amsler, and County Judge Trey Duhon presided.

Commissioners unanimously approved a resolution presented by Judge Duhon which opposes unfunded mandates. According to Duhon, this action is recommended by the Texas Association of Counties to prevent the Texas Legislature from passing a bill which requires extra funding and then passing that cost on to the county.

For instance, at the present time, the Texas State Legislature is considering a bill that would raise the juvenile age from 17 to 18. If this bill is passed, Fort Bend County has already estimated an extra cost to their county of $3 million, which would necessitate a higher tax rate.

Duhon stated, "In order to avoid extra expenses for the county in relation to bills passed by the state legislature, this resolution is a necessity."

In further business, the court unanimously adopted new Rules of Procedure, Conduct, and Decorum at meetings of the court. Individuals will be allowed to make up to a five-minute public comment, but will now be required to fill out a form to be able to speak out on a specific agenda item, rather than just being recognized by the court to address concerns during discussions.

Elections Administrator Dan Teed addressed the court about the necessity of hiring a professional service in connection with redrawing county precinct boundaries as required by Texas Election Code section 42.031.

According to Teed, the City of Katy is growing rapidly westward, annexing parts of Waller County and will expand even more; especially since Houston recently released its extraterritorial jurisdiction in the area. Redistricting may be required more than once in the near future due to the population explosion of Katy into Waller County.

The county is running on a short time table, since redistricting, by state law, must be completed by May 1. Judge Duhon stated that his goal is to acquire the services of a law firm as quickly as possible to deal with the matter in a timely fashion.

Local Citizens Question Delay of Community Center in PV

By CARRIE PRAZAK-GOURLEY
The Waller Times

LaVaughn Mosley, community liaison for the Waller County Assistance Coalition and Senior Citizen Expo, and other Waller County citizens, have expressed their concern over the long delay in construction of a new Waller County Community Center in Prairie View.

Last September, the Waller County Commissioners Court approved changing from the traditional sealed bid process to a Construction Manager at Risk or CMAR for the construction process of the proposed center. When using this method, instead of choosing the lowest bid, a committee reviews bids, as well as qualifications of the builder, and then selects a contractor based on a consensus of factors. Commissioner John Amsler, Waller County Engineer Orval Rhoads, Waller County Auditor Alan Younts, and Rick Price were chosen to serve on the committee with Asst. District Attorney Ruhee Leonard acting as their legal advisor.

On October 8, 2014, the Court approved Sedalco Construction of Fort Worth as the general contractor for the project. According to the committee, Sedalco was highly recommended and had been used by surrounding counties with good results.

Current Waller County Judge Trey Duhon stated that the budget for the project was approximately $880,000. But Sedalco's bid, which was made after they were chosen as the contractor, came in well over budget, at $1.8 million. After the bid was finalized, the court did not approve moving forward with the project due to the high cost, and Sedalco's contract was terminated on March 4, 2015.

In the meantime, Hills Construction, who submitted the lowest bid in a traditional sealed bid method, was awarded the contract to tear down the old community center and clear the site for approximately $20,000.

"Part of the problem," Duhon explained, "is getting small to medium construction companies to bid on this project because they must be able to bond the cost, which is an extra expense for the

Waller Wonders - Ain't nothing like Southern gospel!

By NANCY ARNOLD

I haven't heard if the First Baptist Church of Tomball is still standing ... but I do know that on Saturday night it was rocking! Folks down on Main Street (aka FM 2920) probably heard it and wondered, "What are them Baptists up to?"

What they were "up to" was four hours of pure-D Southern gospel, and it was uplifting, to put it mildly.

Two friends and I – all of us Southern women to the core – were on the fourth row from the front – maybe a little too close to those giant speakers. But what fun!

The first group up was the Dignity Gospel Quartet from Houston ... three old guys and the requisite young guy on the end. These fellas could SING! They sang a bunch of the old standards, a bunch of the Gaither music, and some new stuff.

Then a lady from Kentucky ... Allison Speer ... sort of a polished Minnie Pearl ... came on, and that woman raised the roof more than a couple of inches. That's when we might have thought we sat too close to the speakers. But truly, she had a fabulous voice, and she also told some truly funny stories in between songs.

The next bunch up was a trio, Three Bridges, from Nashville. These boys ... well, one was a little past young ... were polished and poised and PASSIONATE about the music. They had us jumping to our feet, singing, and clapping.

After an intermission (had to shop all their CDs and books and such out in the lobby), there was more of the same. My goodness! We floated out of that church, still humming!

Next stop was Gianni's, a wonderful little Italian restaurant

(run by an Italian family) at 2920 and Medical Complex Drive. Good food (REALLY good food!), good company, and lots of laughter. I'm not sure how long the restaurant has been there, but it has a following. And for good reason: I've never had anything there that was not top-notch. In case you can't tell, I highly recommend the place.

I was still humming as I made my way back to Waller, and that's when I made my next stop. (I should mention that I'm usually in bed by 8:30 – 9:30 at the absolute latest!) I knew my sister, Linda, was visiting from North Texas, but as I drove by Mother's, I noted that my sister Betty was there as well. So naturally I stopped.

It's rare for us three sisters to have time just for us, so we made the most of it. More laughter, of course, and we snacked on marshmallows ... talk about a sugar high! We were tracking down ancestors on Ancestry.com, and you can't imagine how many rabbit trails that sort of thing can lead you down.

Did you know, for instance, that the 1890 census pretty much doesn't exist because of a still-suspicious fire in 1921? We know that because some of the information we needed would have been in that census.

Turns out that all the census records before and after 1890 were safely locked away. Just that one census was unsecured. And that census was either destroyed in the fire, or so water-soaked as to be unreadable. Hmmm ...

One good thing came out of that fire, however (now that I've digressed from my story). Congress approved the National Archives so that these irreplaceable records could be safe. Now, I suppose, they are also on computer. But if the IRS computer scandals and other recent computer issues don't really give me much assurance that the records are any safer than they were in 1921! Let's keep our fingers crossed!

That actually brings me around to my own computer woes. My computer at work imploded Thursday afternoon, eating files – or hiding them – as I watched. I spent many hours trying to retrieve files, and I think I managed to salvage everything.

But, my meticulously maintained files are now a mess. I am a very methodical keeper of records. There is no method right now ... everything is, figuratively speaking, piled in a big heap inside my computer.

I'm sure I'll get all of it sorted out ... soon. At least that's what I've been telling myself since Thursday.

And you know the worst part? It happened the week AFTER the full moon! I can't even blame it on that. Oh, wait! I can blame it on the blasted time change! Yep, THAT'S what caused it. One more reason we should permanently do away with Daylight Saving Time.

Blowing out birthday candles next week is Timothy Ray Garrett, Jenny Avila, Kaylen Gonzalez, Melanie Marie Smith, Meredith Holz Silvas, Adda Valdismerdottir, Tim Cullins, Kourtney Hurry, Abby Dollings, Danny Michael Murray, Terry Arnold, Jessica Waldrop, Bro. Forrest Wood, Matt Stokes, Laurie Dollins, Kara Henkel Cordell, Kaaren Lucas, Kathryn Hoffart, Kathryn Kilcullen, Terri Schmidt, Amanda Rohrman, Keith Evans, Cody Warden, Brandon Crosby, Frances Frey, Coral Oliver, Desere Dalton, Danny Clark, Joyce Bob, and Michele Polk.

Little side note: Brother Forrest Wood and his effervescent bride, Nancy, were at Mother's birthday party in February. Good to see them again. They live in Fulshear now.

Happy anniversary to Wil and Kristine Dygert, Chris and Brandi Shamblin, Blackie and Martha Benoit, John and Laura Hearnberger, Gary and Thelma Hackler, and Clegg and Shannon Herdon.

Absolutely fantastic news about Peggy Albert ... she's home ... and smiling that famous smile! Her mailing address is P. O. Box 78, Waller, if you want to give her a boost.

Little bit of trivia, brought on by the mention of the 1890 census: The top two girls' names in 1890 were Mary and Anna. Mary would remain at the top of the list for decades. In the year I was born (a good while after 1890, thank you for asking), the top name was Mary, #2 was Linda, and #7 was Nancy. At least I made it to the Top Ten!

Until next week ...

Contact Nancy at arnoldn@msn.com, or mail news items to her at P. O. Box 282, Waller 77484.

The People of the Cross, Then and Now

By CARRIE PRAZAK-GOURLEY

ruth stood out, performing his miracles solely for the glorification of God—free of charge—while dispensing wisdom on morality and the nature of God's Kingdom. People flocked to Him, drawn to His plain language and sermons filled with symbolic parables of real life. He astounded His listeners with His quiet air of authority. Jesus' teachings were a stark contrast to His age. In fact, they were revolutionary. He spoke of mercy, love, forgiveness, and of a loving God who promised everlasting life; His message of love cried out as a beacon of hope to a tired and chaotic world.

After Jesus' crucifixion and resurrection, His followers told miraculous tales of a shroud, an angel, an empty tomb, and a glowing apparition composed of flesh and blood. And one by one, His Apostles found the astonishing to be true—Jesus was not dead, but alive, and He was indeed the long promised Messiah.

His Apostles soon learned that His resurrection was only the beginning. Accompanying Jesus for His 40 days on Earth before His ascension, they listened to His last words: "Go ye therefore and make disciples of all nations, teaching them to observe all things I have commanded you. And lo I am with you always, even to the end of time."

Soon the reality of their mission came to the Apostles for when gathered together in a safe house in Jerusalem, they were set on fire as the Holy Spirit descended upon them. Realizing their astounding ability to preach and heal, one by one the Apostles set forth for distant lands, loudly proclaiming the Good News of salvation to all they met.

This was a remarkable moment in the history of the world. A handful of fishermen and other working-class men, born with little social power or position, began the work which changed the course of humanity forever. Traveling far and wide around the Mediterranean Sea, they established hundreds of churches, where baptized believers became transformed by the Living Word.

Early Christians were a people set apart from the immoral culture of the time, a violent, pagan world, where sexual promiscuity, infanticide and animal sacrifice were common.

In a letter written to Diognetus, c. A.D. 130, Christians of that time were described thusly: "As citizens they share all things with others. They marry, but they do not destroy their offspring. They have a common table, but not a common bed. They are in the flesh, but not of the flesh. They pass their days on earth, but are citizens of Heaven. They surpass the laws with their lives. They are a people set apart."

Christians endured centuries of persecution and martyrdom, often worshipping below ancient cities in "catacombs" to avoid arrest. It was not until 331 A.D.

that the Emperor Constantine of Rome became a Christian and finally halted the persecutions.

Christianity, continuing the "great commission" given to them by Jesus, continued to spread the "Good News" throughout Europe and later the Americas, spurred on by its eternal message of forgiveness and salvation.

That is until the 20th century, when under the atheistic communist regimes of the Soviet Union, China, North Korea and others, millions of Christians were martyred for their faith, and that trend has continued today with the rise of Islamic jihad in the Middle East, Africa, and Asia.

What about Christianity in the modern world? How has it fared? How does "The Way" of Jesus carry on in the 21st century?

Some might claim, that with the rise of secularism (belief system that rejects all forms of religion), Christianity is on the decline. It is true that some modern Christians do instill the tenets of secular society into their Christian philosophy, even though God said His Word is unchanging and eternal. And there has been a marked decline in church attendance since the 1960's, which has sadly been accompanied by a rise in addictions, divorce, and abortion.

However, despite some reports to the contrary, take heart, because Christianity may not be on the decline after all. According to a recent Pew survey, Christianity is sweeping the globe, with hundreds of converts being added daily. Christianity is booming in China, which now has more Christians than members of the communist party. In another little noted trend, six million Muslims convert to Christianity every year.

Today, Christians are still the primary force in the world for charitable giving. Following Jesus' teaching in Matthew 25:45, "Whatever you do unto the least of these, you do unto me." From the time of the Apostles until this day, Christians have been at the forefront of education, founding schools and universities throughout the world, and have taken on the mission of feeding the needy, clothing the naked, taking care of the sick, and visiting the imprisoned, thereby truly living Jesus' commandment to "Love one another as I have loved you."

The impact of Christian charity is immeasurable. Worldwide Christian charities such as Samaritan's Purse, World Vision, and Catholic Relief Services are the largest missions in the world that serve the poor. Christian missions, large and small, exist in every nook and cranny of the world, bringing love and hope to those in need.

One thing is certain in today's world, that to the People of the Cross Jesus matters. He mattered greatly to His flock two thousand years ago, and He matters just as much today. He has had a constant connection to humanity in the years since His death and resurrection. Like the 18th century Scottish poet Michael Bruce wrote, "In every pang that rends the heart, the Man of Sorrows had a part."

Indeed. World history offers no other figure as omnipresent as Jesus. Napoleon Bonaparte said it best, when he wrote, "Alexan-looking forward to serving the community he calls home as the Fire Chief and leading a great group of volunteers who sacrifice their time to protect their neighbors.

One of his first acts was to select a command staff to help lead the department in their goal of protecting Northeast Waller

County and Northwest Harris County. This staff is complimented by 45 additional volunteers. Chief Woolley would like to invite anyone interested in joining the Tri-County Fire Department to stop by Station 42 at 29144 FM 1488 in the Field Store community on any Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

WCAD Reminds Businesses to Render Taxable Property by April 15

If you own tangible personal property that is used to produce income, you must file a rendition with the Waller County Appraisal District by April 15, 2015.

A rendition is a report that lists all the taxable property you owned or controlled on January 1 of this year. Property includes inventory and equipment used by a business. Owners do not have to render exempt property, such as church property or an agriculture producer's equipment used for farming.

"The appraisal district may use the information submitted in the rendition to set property values," said Chris Barzilla, Chief Appraiser.

You can also file a report of decreased value to notify the appraisal district of significant depreciation of your property. "For example, if your property was damaged by a storm, flood or fire last year, you should file a report of decreased value. The appraisal district will look at your property before assigning a value in 2015," said Barzilla.

The last day to file a rendition or report of decreased value is April 15, 2015. If a rendition is filed late or incomplete or not at all, a 10 percent to 50 percent penalty may be imposed. Property owners who need more time to file their renditions may file a written request with the chief appraiser on or before April 15 to receive an automatic extension to May 15 or the next business day. The chief appraiser may also grant an additional 15 days after the postponed deadline, if necessary.

For more information about rendering property, deadline extensions, penalties and rendition forms, taxpayers may contact the Waller County Appraisal District at 900 13th Street Hempstead, Texas 77445 or 979-921-0060.

Waller County Appraisal District: Deferred Property Tax Payments Available

Texans who are age 65 or older or who are disabled as defined by law may postpone paying current and delinquent property taxes on their homes by signing a tax deferral affidavit at the Waller County Appraisal District office.

Once the affidavit is on file, taxes are deferred — but not cancelled — as long as the owner continues to own and live in the home. Taxes accumulate with 8 percent interest per year. The law extends the tax deferral to the surviving spouse of the person who deferred taxes on the homestead if the surviving spouse was at least 55 years old when the deceased spouse died.

A filed tax deferral affidavit keeps homeowners from losing their homesteads because of delinquent property taxes. A pending sale to foreclose on the homestead's tax lien will also cease as a result of filing a tax deferral affidavit. In addition, no taxing unit can start or continue a lawsuit to collect delinquent taxes once an affidavit is filed. There are no penalties on delinquent taxes during the deferral period; however, a tax deferral does not cancel penalties that were already due.

All deferred taxes and interest become due when the homeowner or surviving spouse no longer own and live in the home. If the tax debt remains unpaid at that time, penalties may be imposed and taxing units may take legal action to collect the past due amount.

For further details about property tax deferral, contact the Waller County Appraisal District at 900 13th Street Hempstead, Texas 77445 or 979-921-0060.

Information is also available on the Comptroller's Property Tax Assistance Division's website at www.window.state.tx.us/taxinfo/proptax/ or www.waller-cad.org.

contractor."

Duhon concluded, "While we understand that our citizens, especially our senior citizens, need a community center as soon as possible for their activities, we also have the duty to the taxpayers to make sure this project is done in a cost effective manner and in accordance to budget parameters. Rest assured that the long range planning committee is working very diligently to get this project underway."

Duhon stated that he is hopeful that the project will be going back out to bid soon and that a contractor can be found to do it within the county's budget parameters.

WISD Selects Architect to Address Rapid GrowthWISD Public Information

The Waller ISD School Board of Trustees selected VLK Architects to provide services that are focused on addressing the rapid growth within the school district's boundaries. The board appointed Mark Lam, Ph.D., AIA, with Sterling 20 in November to oversee the construction program management process.

Lam, an experienced architect, released a request for qualifications to architects who were interested in providing services to Waller ISD. Those qualifications include long-range facility planning, bond planning, facility programming, design, and contract administration. Lam compiled the information and an Architect Selection Committee was formed consisting of the school board members, the superintendent, assistant superintendents, the maintenance director, and Lam.

The Architect Selection Committee thoroughly reviewed the criteria of each firm and narrowed down the selection to six firms to interview. After the Architect Selection Committee completed in-depth interviews, the committee narrowed down the list to two firms. A project tour was arranged for the committee to assess the work of the two architect finalists.

Waller ISD and VLK Architects were in contract negotiations since the February 9 school board meeting and finalized the contract on Thursday, February 26. VLK Architects will conduct a facility needs assessment to review the district's rapid growth and aging facilities. The needs assessment will include an evaluation of new growth, current capacity, campus needs, technology updates and safety needs. After the needs assessment is compiled, a citizen committee will be formed to assist the District with its planning.

Waller ISD currently has an enrollment of 6,275 students with four of the District's five elementary campuses currently at maximum capacity, according to the demographic update that the President of Population and Survey Analysts PASA, Dr. Pat Guseman presented.

"Dr. Guseman and Dr. Stacy Tepera presented a demographic update to the School Board that reflected a rapid 5.03 percent growth rate in one year from the fall of 2013 to the fall of 2014," said Waller ISD Superintendent Danny Twardowski.

PASA presented a demographic update for long range planning on February 3 that forecasts the next ten years of growth in Waller ISD. The PASA demographic update included demographic trends, housing projections, students per household ratios, projected student enrollment, and long range planning for Waller ISD. The demographic update moderate scenario growth forecast reflects that the school district is expected to increase from the current student enrollment of

RCS Lady Eagles On Way to State

The Rosehill Lady Eagles advanced to the State Tournament in Glen Rose with a 43-32 victory over Shiner St. Paul in the area game on Friday followed by a 43-20 win over Bracken Christian Saturday in the regional final.

The win over Shiner was led by the great defensive play of Amanda Figueroa, 10 rebounds and 5 steals and Georgia Barnhart, 7 rebounds and 4 steals. The offense was powered by Mariah Baz with 19 points and Halle Staib with 11.

After a sluggish first half against Bracken Christian, the Lady Eagles pulled away with a 17 point third quarter. Again the defense was led by Amanda Figueroa with 10 rebounds and 5 steals, Georgia Barnhart 10 rebounds and 2 steals and Halle Staib with 10 rebounds and 3 steals.

Offensively, Mariah Baz led with 14 points and Sarah Herbsleb and Amanda Figueroa each had 10 points.

This will be the 5th trip to the State Tournament for the Lady Eagles, the last one being in 2012 when they were the State Runner-up.

surer Linda Pinkerton's report was approved.

tion is scheduled for Saturday, March 21 at 11:30 a.m. at the Cannery Kitchen, 314 E. Alamo Street, in downtown Brenham.

Members were reminded that there is a link on the TSO website to the hotels that will be used for the upcoming state convention and reservations should be made as soon as possible. Registration forms are also now available online. Members were urged to bring school supplies to the upcoming April 18 regular meeting or to the convention as a donation for the convention's unifying project for Boys and Girls Clubs of San Antonio.

However, Mathis clearly suggests Beckendorff wasn't telling the truth to the public from the start. Mathis says Beckendorff told him early in 2011 that a business worth a "lot of money" was coming to the South end of Waller County, but did not bother to mention at first it was a landfill. Mathis assumed the negotiations were for a tax abatement.

Mathis claims when he did find out it was a proposed landfill he was told it was being put by "Odis Styers place", far away from a town and out by a Superfund site. Styers was a County Commissioner at the time. Mathis said he was not told until May of 2011 that the landfill was coming to Hempstead, and although he was outraged, he was obligated under law to remain silent.

Beckendorff stated that in his recollection all commissioners and the District Attorney found out about the location of the landfill at the same time.

On September 9, 2013, Mathis first confided to his staff at the District Attorney's office in an email obtained by Dolcefino Consulting. Wayne Dolcefino, a former investigative reporter for KTRK TV in Houston, has been working on the landfill case for a local citizen whose property will be impacted negatively if the landfill is built.

The email obtained by Dolcefino involves Rhoads, who claimed Mathis advised him and former Judge Beckendorff to keep a planned visit to a Georgia landfill a secret in early 2011, and even showed them how to do it.

Mathis disputes that story and says he was asked by Rhoads and Beckendorff if it was ok for the landfill people to pay for them to fly to see another landfill they owned. Mathis says he advised them the trip was legal if the "landfill company gave the money to the court publicly and the court agreed to the travel as a donation to the county".

Mathis said Beckendorff and Rhoads decided to pay their own way, and Mathis then told them to save their receipts in case at some point in the future they could be reimbursed.

When questioned about the trip, Beckendorff says he felt that it was necessary to see what the county was in for in regards to a landfill. Even though Pintail had not yet chosen a site, according to Beckendorff, he knew that the company would soon do so.

In the end, Beckendorff was not able to go, and Odis Styers, former Commissioner for Pct. 1, took his place. Mathis says that at the time the trip to Georgia took place, he was still "in the dark" about any plans for the landfill coming to Hempstead.

When asked about the landfill, Styers said he did everything in his power to stop it.

"I even spoke with both the governor and his chief of staff," Styers said. He also stated that he fully cooperated with all investigations.

Both Rhoads and Styers state that they paid for the trip out of their personal funds. Rhoads sent a receipt for his airfare to The Waller Times, and Styers stated that he personally handed over the receipts to both the Texas Rangers and the attorneys for CALH.

Green Group Holdings (GGH) representative Jeff Tieszen confirmed earlier this week that GGH, parent company of Pintail Landfill, did not pay for any trips taken by Waller County officials. According to Tieszen, Green Group regularly meets with county officials and local businesses within a community where it is looking to develop a project.

After the location of the landfill deal became public, Mathis said he had a heart to heart talk with Beckendorff and encouraged him to oppose the landfill and believed "the people would forgive him if he tried to do the right thing now".

According to Dolcefino, it is likely that these new revelations will add fuel to continuing calls for a real criminal investigation into the landfill deal, including whether any county officials gave false testimony to a Waller County jury.

Taxpayers are being forced to make about three quarters of a million dollars in restitution for the violations of the Texas Public Information Act and Texas Open Meeting Act by the former Waller County Commissioners Court.

Earlier this month, the Commissioners Court terminated their contract with Allison, Bass, and McGee, the firm that had represented them throughout the landfill litigation. This firm had lost the trust of the county's citizens because they continually fought public information act requests made by Dolcefino consulting and others, according to some current members of Commissioners Court. In addition, Dolcefino Consulting claim they were stymied in efforts to obtain emails from former Commissioner Styers and Rhoads.

According to Dolcefino, another former county employee involved in the early landfill dealings was Robin German. She claimed many of her emails were destroyed by a computer virus. German worked for Beckendorff early in 2011 before becoming the county election official. German and Beckendorff exchanged hundreds of text messages, but the contents of those messages have never been made public.

Due to these problems, Mathis's office is hiring a Public Integrity Prosecutor. Mathis said that the new administration wants to ensure that all county public employees follow legal guidelines and conduct all business with honesty and transparency.

Dolcefino Consulting continues their investigation into this landfill scandal.

Dolcefino, President of Dolcefino Consulting, stated, "This landfill should never be built and the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality should do the right thing and stop it. This huge pile of trash will be horrible for the environment, and we now know this deal stinks in more ways than one. The TCEQ has a chance to send a message about transparency and integrity. A lot of people are watching."

As for Mathis, he's just grateful that he can finally tell his story.

"I appreciate Waller County Judge Trey Duhon and the current Commissioners Court allowing me to clarify with the public what I knew and when I knew it. The last few years have been difficult when you've been intentionally bound and gagged by the law, but I knew somehow things would come to the light. They always do," Mathis surmised.

One thing's for certain, the landfill continues to be a hot topic, and further litigation involving the county is more than likely on its way.

Tieszen also stated that Green Group intends to move forward with the Pintail landfill at Hwy. 6 pending approval by the TCEQ.

And sadly today, in the Middle East and Africa, thousands the persecuted.

Despite these modern persecutions, Christians today remain strong, and one fact is beyond doubt: Jesus today is not only present. He is potent.

The Gospel of Mark states, "Who do you say that I am?", to which Peter answered, "You are the Christ, the Son of the Living God."

And Christians, yesterday and today, take solace in Jesus' promise voiced in Matthew, which remains as yet irrefutable after two thousand years' time: "...and lo I am with you always, even to the end of the world."

Take heart, for in all the world's chaos and tragedy the same promise remains. Jesus is still here for all those who seek Him, offering a peace of heart that the world cannot give.

Waller ISD Held a Round-table Discussion Safety Preparedness Meeting on March 5. Emergency personnel in and around the Waller ISD community met to hear an overview about narcotics by Anna Ortiz, a Harris County Sheriff's Office Deputy Investigator that works with the Drug Enforcement Agency Narcotics Task Force and High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas HIDTA. Harris County Sheriff's Office and School Resource Officer, Tommy Smith arranged the guest speaker.

The regular roundtable meetings provide various topics, and help build relationships so that all agencies can effectively prepare and respond to community safety needs. Waller ISD Superintendent Danny Twardowski welcomed all attendants and spoke about the importance of communication and the value of community awareness.

Twardowski also informed the attendees of Waller ISD's

Spring Break week, and to be on alert since spring weather also brings out a change in behavior in people. Introductions of attendees were led by Safety and Emergency Management Director, Steve Underhill.

Ortiz and Smith presented an overview of narcotics and emerging trends. Ortiz reported that a synthetic drug combination similar to LSD and meth known as the N-Bomb, Smiles, or 25-I, is blamed for at least 19

Schultz Junior High Presents The Marvelous Playbill

WISD Public Information

On February 20, Schultz Junior High theatre students along with Director Elaine Lucas and chaperones Leslie Sellers and Bunny Kennedy traveled to Lynn Lucas Middle School in Willis to compete in the UIL One-Act Play Contest.

Schultz Junior High presented The Marvelous Playbill, a comedy in one act by Tim Kelly. In the play, down-and-out theatrical producer Chanfalla, played by Aubrey French, plays on the vanity of the Castilians in 16th century Spain by announcing The Marvelous Playbill, an entertainment so unusual that only a pure-blooded Castilian can see it.

The announcement brings people pouring in. Actually, there is no show. Chanfalla tells them what they are seeing. At first, they are all struck dumb by the realization that they aren't pure-blooded since they see nothing. Soon human vanity is at work, and they're all telling outrageous lies.

Other cast members included Jenna Beyer, Samantha Braziel, Isabel Byrd, Melissa Fernandez, Madyson Guidry, Cooper Hightower, Hannah Morrow, Andy Ogg, Adam Sellers, Meaghan Simpson, Madison Smith, Arliz-

za Velasquez, Dominique Vidrio, and Avery Williams. Crew Members were Kaitlin Christopher, Cassidy Johnson, Riley Kohler, Kaili Manthei, and Irene Osbun. Alternates were Faith Albert, Breanna Hardcastle, and Bella Hillman.

"The district's overall growth has increased to more than 400 students in comparison to this same time last year," said Twardowski at the February school board meeting. The moderate growth model predicts that Waller ISD will increase by approximately 325 to 868 students each year for the next 10 years.

The architect firm will begin the planning process meetings in March with district administrators to address the rapid growth in Waller ISD.

Prince shared with attendees about his background and the importance of education for youth. He addressed how his family encouraged him to appreciate his education when he was a young boy, and how he approached encouraging education with his children. He stated that education is a family affair, and that parents should always encourage their children to learn.

Following Prince's keynote speech, attendees were invited to attend student and adult breakout information sessions. Elementary students in grades 1-5 learned the value of fair play, while students in grades 6-12 learned to develop healthy relationships at every stage of life. Parents attended two of three workshops offered on topics such as Building Effective Communication with our Kids, School Success: How to help your Child Succeed, and Career & College Ready, Set, Go! Other entertainment at the event included the Journey Church Band, ACE Drumline, ACE Steppers, and performances by the Waller High School Theatre Art students and Jones Elementary students.
